Steel Dispute May Go Back To HST

Could Invoke T-H Law To Delay Strike

Washington (AP) — High-level government efforts to break the steel industry's deadlock with its CIO union workers ran into unexplained snags yesterday amid signs the whole dispute may be turned over to President Truman.

The President returned from his vacation at Key West, Fla., yesterday. He could invoke the emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley act, which call for an 80-day cooling-off period, if he thinks that step is necessary to avert a strike threatened for April 8.

Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson called off a meeting of his top aides to discuss the steel wage-price situation. He also discarded plans to issue a statement setting forth the government position.

Instead, Wilson met separately with Roger L. Putnam, head of the Economic Stabilization Agency Chairman Nathan P. Folsinger of the Wage Stabilization board (WSB); and Ellis Arnall, director of Office of Price Stabilization (OPS).

The WSB last week recommended a settlement which would include a three-installment pay boost of 17½ cents an hour, plus other benefits worth about 5 cents an hour, for the 650,000 steelworkers.

The union, headed by Philip Murray, accepted the proposal and started individual talks with producers on the basis of the WSB plan, which Wilson has described as a serious threat to the whole stabilization program.

Folsinger replied "hell, no" when asked whether Wilson had suggested yesterday the WSB back-track and recommend a smaller wage boost. Arnall declined comment on his talk with Wilson.

At Pittsburgh, The Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. and the union broke off talks indefinitely, as the United States Steel Corp. and the union had done Wednesday. So did Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Republic Steel.

The WSB recommendations stirred controversy that has enveloped administration leaders, Congress members, and steel industry and union heads. There has been sharp disagreement as to whether the WSB recommendations are inflationary.

Steel leaders have said prices would have to be boosted $12 a ton to meet the cost of the WSB plan. Murray differs. He told union members in Pittsburgh a $2 per ton increase would cover the WSB recommendations. He called the proposed wage boosts "moderate" and said his union members didn't get all they wanted.

Government officials charged with analyzing the effect of wage boosts on prices differed with both union and industry as to the amount of a steel price increase required to cover the WSB proposals.

One official said a $4 per ton increase would be needed to offset the 17½ cent hourly boost proposed by WSB. This would not take into effect industry claims that for each dollar of wage boosts its costs go up another dollar.

Government officials concerned with holding prices down say that a steel price boost exceeding $2 to $2.50 per ton would put the rug out from under efforts to hold the price line against inflation.

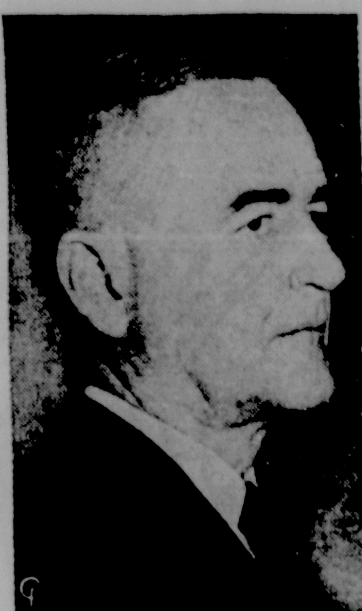

Officials who may not be named told a reporter a larger increase would set off a chain price reaction in all industry—"the bigger the hike for steel, the bigger the reaction."

The $2 to $2.50 per ton boost they described as "reasonable" would be just about the amount OPS expects the steel companies to get if they ask increases under the Capehart amendment to the economic controls law. This is apart from the current wage dispute and the WSB proposals.

The Capehart provision calls for ceilings to reflect pre-Korean prices plus adjustments for virtually all cost increases up to last July 26.

Defense Costs Approach 167 Millions Daily

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Defense Lovett has told Congress the United States soon will be spending 167 million dollars a day for military security.

And, he says, it will cost this much until the end of 1954, at least.

Lovett told a House appropriations subcommittee headed by Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.) that this estimate was based on the assumption there would be no upsurge in the Korean fighting and no general war in the next year.

The secretary and other witnesses strongly defended the "calculated risk" budget of $2 billion dollars in new funds requested for the 1953 fiscal year, beginning next July 1. Committee hearings were in January, and the testimony was released yesterday.

Lovett said this figure was reached after chopping down a total of 73 billion dollars which military leaders estimated was necessary to put the U. S. Army and Marines in "an acceptance state of readiness" by July 1, 1953 and to bring the Navy and Air Force to such a state at a later date.

Twins Raid Sugar Bowl

Norma Springs, Ia. (AP) — For a while, at least, the first grade of the Nora Springs public school had a group of amazingly well-heeled scholars.

Johnny Kelley had $80 in currency. So did Gordon Gratias who generously gave two $20 bills to Richard Hutton and another $20 to Roy Sour.

Jimmy Fingelsen had $60, Jimmy Kopisch was flourishing a $20 and Larry Timm had a ten-spot.

Larry started the ball rolling by breaking his ten at the drug store to buy a box of candy for his mother, Dick Hutton, who was observing his seventh birthday, explained to his mother that Gordon Gratias gave him the two twenties as a birthday gift.

The mothers who speedily became amateur detectives lost little time in identifying Gene and Gerald Schwade, seven-year-old twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Schwade, as the original dispensers of the largesse.

Gene and Gerald had found $250 in a sugar bowl at home and had given away every cent of it to their classmates.

The Schwades got back every cent of it.

Five Miners Trapped In Flooded Pit

Pottsville (AP) — Five miners were trapped last night when water from an adjoining mine shaft flooded their pit at a hard coal diggings near Forrestville.

Mine inspectors said it was feared all five of the men were drowned immediately by the rushing waters.

It was not learned immediately how deep in the mine the five men were when trapped. The shaft was said to be between 300 and 400 feet deep.

The water flooded the shaft shortly after 9 p.m. and an emergency call was sent out within a short time. The Minersville community ambulance rushed to the scene together with State troopers and State mine inspectors.

The independent mine is owned by Charles Martin and Ray Canno. The five miners were tentatively identified as Dennis Onusco, of Forrestville; Joseph Goditus, New Minersville; Edward and Joseph Kontarchick, both of Jonestown, and a man named Lapinski.

The mine is located near Forrestville, which is six miles west of Pottsville, in Pennsylvania's hard coal region.

Sen. Bridges Defends Move

Washington (AP) — The chairman of a House investigating committee told Senator Bridges (R-Vt.) yesterday that he had let his friends take "deliberate advantage" of him when he interceded in a seven million dollar tax case.

Bridges, Republican floor leader in the Senate, appeared before the committee at his own request to testify that his only interest in the case was "to encourage quick and proper action by the government."

The investigators have developed evidence that Henry W. (the Dutchman) Grunewald, Washington wirepuller, and William Fowler Maloney, a New York lawyer formerly with the Justice department, also were working behind the scenes on the case in 1949.

It involved a huge jeopardy tax assessment against Hyman Harvey Klein, Baltimore whisky dealer.

"In my opinion, they have taken deliberate advantage of you," said Rep. King (D-Calif.), referring to Grunewald and Maloney. King heads a House ways and means subcommittee which has been digging into a long series of tax scandals.

Russians Firm Against Unity Vote In Reich

Moscow (AP) — Diplomatic sources said last night Russia has told the Big Three that west Germany should get the same military deal as Japan got in the San Francisco peace treaty, even though Russia still regards that pact as illegal.

Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky, in a highly unusual step, gave his country's views Tuesday in a half-hour oral analysis of American, British and French replies to Russia's proposal that the Big Four sign a peace treaty with a unified Germany.

Vishinsky told the diplomats Russia stands firm in rejecting western proposals that elections for an all-German government be supervised by the United Nations. He said such elections should be prepared by the presently divided East and West German governments with whatever aid is necessary from the Big Four.

President Truman Returns From Florida, Settles Down In Remodeled White House

Washington, (AP) — President Truman, still silent on politics, returned from a three-week Florida vacation last night and settled down in the gleaming "new" White House for the first time in more than three years.

The Trumans vacated the White House in November, 1948, and moved across the street to Blair House. In the interim, the executive mansion has been rebuilt and remodeled at a cost of $5,671,000.

Smiling and tanned, Truman arrived at National airport aboard his plane, the Independence, at 5:56 p. m.

"I never felt better in my life," he said.

Then, spotting Mrs. Truman, he hurried to her side and gave her a hug—with a repeat performance at the request of photographers. "I guess she won't mind," he said.

The President had nothing to say about published reports that

Truce Negotiators Virtually Deadlock On Russia's Role

Munsan, Friday, (AP) — Truce negotiators at Panmunjom today neared a complete deadlock on Russia's role in Korea's post-armistice affairs. There were indications the staff officers would hand the unsolved problem back to higher-ranking sub-delegates.

The Reds want Russia selected as one of the neutral nations to supervise the Korean armistice. The Allies have flatly rejected the Soviet Union.

Col. Don O. Darrow, Allied staff officer, told newsmen after today's one hour and nine minute session that North Korean Col. Chang Chung San declared himself "not interested" in discussing the problem among the staff officers.

"What Chang has in mind I don't know," Darrow added. "Apparently he doesn't seem to be trying to solve the problem at staff officer level."

Other staff officers met in secret session on terms for the exchange of prisoners of war. They laid the groundwork yesterday for a possible compromise by exchanging detailed statements of their respective positions.

The problem is one of three major issues barring a Korean armistice. The others are Red nomination of Russia as a neutral truce observer and Red insistence on rebuilding military airfields during a truce.

The Allies openly were seeking a compromise on the prisoner issue. They had held out for voluntary repatriation while the Reds insisted that every prisoner should be required to go back to the other side.

The Reds proposed March 21 a flat exchange of 11,559 prisoners admittedly in Communist hands and 132,474 officially listed in Allied hands.

The Allied negotiator said each side was exploring the other's ideas in "free discussions without rancor."

In Tokyo, the American Red Cross announced it was setting up machinery to assist in the return of Allied war prisoners if an armistice was reached.

Drugs Complicate Arthritis Cases

Atlantic City, N. J. (AP) — A University of Michigan specialist says "tremendous complications are occurring in arthritis patients who have been given two years' continuous treatment with ACTH or cortisone."

Dr. Jerome Conn made this report to the American Academy of General Practice.

He said some of the nation's chief arthritis specialists now "feel that it would be much better" not to give such patients the drug at all.

Churchill Bill Clears Hurdle

London, Friday, (AP) — The Churchill government's bill to impose small charges for medicine and other items in Britain's national tax-supported health services cleared its first big hurdle in the House of Commons early today.

By a vote of 304 to 279, the House rejected a Labor party motion to kill the bill.

The Commons then adopted, 303 to 273, a Conservative motion to advance the bill to its second reading.

Kefauver Says Truman Should Let Hands Off

(By the Associated Press)

Sen. Estes Kefauver called on President Truman, in effect, yesterday to keep hands off and let the nation's Democratic voters choose their own nominee if Truman himself decides not to seek re-election.

Kefauver spoke out after reading reports—unconfirmed but not denied by the White House—that Truman has asked Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois to become the administration's candidate for president.

Truman withheld any comment on the purported offer to Stevenson. Returning to Washington from his Florida vacation, the President told newsmen he could not say anything about it at this time.

In Omaha, where Kefauver is pushing his own campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination, he told newsmen:

"If President Truman doesn't want to run, I think the people will want to choose the Democratic nominee, as they have been doing in voicing their sentiments in the primary elections."

Truman has scoffed at primaries as so much eyewash and said they don't mean a thing when the nominating convention meets. He made the remark at a news conference on Jan. 31. Some weeks later, Kefauver scored an astonishing upset over Truman in the New Hampshire "popularity" primary.

Along with Kefauver's job at any king-making move by the President, a well-informed Democratic source in Washington suggested that Truman may have little say about the choice of a successor by the time the Democratic national convention rolls around in July.

"The President may find he will have lost complete control of everything by that time," the Capitol informant said.

The Chicago Daily Sun-Times said Stevenson has "firmly declined President Truman's invitation to seek the Democratic presidential nomination."

The newspaper said it had also learned that "only a full-blown convention draft" could shake Stevenson's decision.

Commenting on the Sun-Times story, Stevenson reiterated that he is a candidate for re-election as governor "and that is all I want."

In the midst yesterday, campaigners of both parties began putting on a home-stretch drive to capture votes in next Tuesday's Wisconsin and Nebraska primaries.

In Nebraska, boosters of Sen. Robert A. Taft made no secret of their hope to revive the Ohio senator's somewhat ebbing prestige by rolling up a big write-in vote—and thus offset Taft's loss to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in New Hampshire and the impetus given to the Eisenhower boom by his big write-in vote in Minnesota.

Harold E. Stassen is the only GOP candidate listed on the Nebraska ballot, but supporters of both Taft and Eisenhower are counting heavily on a write-in vote to make it a three-way race.

The board ordered the corporation to dispose of its stock in all but the Bank of America, a 530-branch California chain, the world's biggest individual bank.

U.S. Has Enough A-Bombs To Destroy Photographic Industry

New York, (AP) — Our stockpile of A-bombs is now presumably big enough to destroy the photographic industry of the whole world, says Dr. Louis Ridenour Jr., of Los Angeles, one of the foremost A-bomb scientists.

This destruction would come from radioactive dust if all these American bombs were exploded about simultaneously.

Dr. Ridenour made this estimate yesterday in a "conference on the future," held by hundreds of executives of life insurance companies celebrating the 200th anniversary of mutual insurance in this country.

He quoted an estimate that 10,000 A-bombs exploded at one time would be enough by their radioactive dust to cause slow death of possibly every person in the world.

"This grisly prospect," he said, "is a real one, and not so far off. Today it can be supposed that we possess a sufficient stockpile of atomic weapons to destroy the photographic industry, whose sensitive materials are many times as responsible to radiation as are the tissues of our bodies."

"But soon we shall have a stockpile large enough to destroy all of us, no matter where we use it. The time for this can only be guessed, but probably is not later than, say, five years from now."

There is one recorded case of radioactive A-bomb dust destroying film. After the first A-bomb in New Mexico in 1945, some of its dust got into strawboard manufactured in Ohio and this material fogged Eastman Kodak film when used as packing. The dust floated to Ohio.

New Atomic Tests Slated Next Week

Las Vegas, Nev., (AP) — The Atomic Energy commission indicated yesterday that it will start a new series of nuclear detonations at the Nevada test site next week.

The AEC issued a warning to all ranchers, miners and other persons to vacate the test grounds, about 75 miles northwest of here, by the end of this week.

It also warned all aircraft to stay out of the air above the Yucca and Frenchman Flats area, scene of a dozen atomic blasts during 1951.

The AEC's warning was similar to those issued before the two test series last year. AEC spokesmen declined to amplify on the yesterday's warning, saying "it speaks for itself."

The tests will continue for an indefinite period, it was stated.

Artery From Dead Woman Saves Another

New York (AP) — A death two months ago is giving new life today to a middle-aged, smiling woman.

From the dead person came a big, Y-shaped section of artery, about five inches long. For six weeks it was preserved in an artery bank.

Ten days ago, it was transplanted, substituted for the woman's own Y-shaped artery which had to be cut out to save her from abdominal cancer.

The operation was historic—the first difficult transplant of such a shape of artery ever done for cancer. It was described yesterday by Dr. Milton R. Porter and Dr. Ralph Deterling of Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons to writers visiting cancer centers in a tour arranged by the American Cancer society.

The operation took 7½ hours. The blood supply to the woman's legs is normal.

Sitting in a wheelchair at Delafield hospital, she smiled and said, "I feel fine. I can stand and walk a bit now."

U.S. Warships Silence Red Shore Guns

Seoul, Korea, Friday, (AP) — American warships hurled a day-long barrage of high explosives into the Communist port of Wonsan yesterday and silenced Red shore batteries in that battered east coast city.

Allied naval headquarters in Tokyo said the Reds fired on U. N. ships on six of the last seven days. Near-misses on U. S. destroyers in the area were reported Wednesday, but counter-fire silenced the Red guns.

There was almost no fighting on the ground or in the air. Far East warplanes flew only 300 sorties yesterday. Action along the 155-mile ground front was restricted to minor probes and patrols.

The Navy said the cruiser USS Manchester and the destroyer USS Hanson pressed the siege attack against Wonsan, now in its 13th month. Other United Nations surface craft hit Red targets on both coasts.

"I never could see it either," he said. "We audit the commissioners' accounts. I don't see why they should sign it. It always seemed funny to me."

The courtesy custom appeared broken, for none of the commissioners signed.

As for the audit itself, only two auditors' signatures are necessary to make it valid.

Wernett again said he would not sign it.

"Until I am satisfied, I will not sign. I don't want to be a fly in the ointment, but—"

As the group prepared to leave, Bessecker told Wernett, "John, I'm not making any threats, but there will be other years to make audits. . . . and we, as auditors, must be very careful what we do. That's just advice. . . ."

Wernett smiled and said he was "a new man" and glad to get advice.

As the group left, Wernett handed a copy of his report to Alto, the commission chairman.

The report, in part, mentioned some of the following points relating to payments and receipts made by the county last year:

Item 2 referred to a $66.40 payment for "concrete work on Monroe St." in Stroudsburg; Wernett said he had not found approval of the bill.

Item 3 reported Voucher W386 showed convention expenses and mileage for a county official but not when or where the convention was held.

Files Own Report With Commission

Auditor John Wernett refused to sign the 1951 county audit submitted to commissioners yesterday.

Instead he read off a 13-point minority report questioning such things as vouchers, telephone calls, travel expenses, salary, fees and policies.

Wernett made his separate report after Mahlon Bessecker, chairman of the three-man board of county auditors, had finished reading the audit to commissioners.

Bessecker and Mary Emma Garcia, the other auditor, said they were signing the audit as read by Bessecker. Wernett refused. The audit was filed with clerk of the Courts James Gould.

The reading of the audit and the report took place in the morning before one of the largest groups assembled in the commissioners' office since Altoona, W. Adolph Rake and Granville Shifler took office in January.

Present were the commissioners, Chief Clerk Harry Taylor, County Solicitor James Kitzon, the three auditors, their solicitor, J. J. McCuskey, Treasurer P. E. Rockefeller and his solicitor, Arlington W. Williams.

The other 10 persons present listened silently for the most part as Wernett read rapidly through his report, flecked with such phrases and words as "county employees did not employ sagacity in positions as public officers, . . . unwarranted" . . . "surcharge" . . . "excessive expense" . . .

Winding up his report, Wernett said he had gotten "wonderful cooperation" during his "investigation."

Alto asked the county solicitor if any action by commissioners was indicated in connection with Wernett's report.

Kitzon advised the commissioners "take no action at this time." "I'm not trying to cover up anybody's dirt," Bessecker said. "Not a bit of it. But the court appointed the auditor for the prothonotary's office. We haven't been in that office for 12 years."

(Wernett had mentioned certain fees collected by the prothonotary's office.)

Considerable discussion followed. Wernett declared it was the duty of auditors to investigate as well as to check the balance of books.

"Anyone can take exception to the audit," said Bessecker. "They have that privilege. But this is how we found it and we are swearing to that."

After more discussion, McCuskey asked—referring to Wernett's report—"Is this concurred in by the board of auditors?"

"No. That's his personal business, not ours," Mrs. Garcia replied. . . .

At one point Bessecker told Wernett, "You never mentioned any of this before to us."

Wernett replied that he had, and cited several instances where he had raised questions to Bessecker about items mentioned in the minority report.

As the argument—which at no time became noticeably heated—tapered off, Bessecker indicated where commissioners should sign the copy of the audit he had read.

Commissioners raised the question of why they should sign an audit of their own books. Bessecker explained it was simply a courtesy and a custom which had been carried on for years.

"I never could see it either," he said. "We audit the commissioners' accounts. I don't see why they should sign it. It always seemed funny to me."

The courtesy custom appeared broken, for none of the commissioners signed.

As for the audit itself, only two auditors' signatures are necessary to make it valid.

Wernett again said he would not sign it.

"Until I am satisfied, I will not sign. I don't want to be a fly in the ointment, but—"

As the group prepared to leave, Bessecker told Wernett, "John, I'm not making any threats, but there will be other years to make audits. . . . and we, as auditors, must be very careful what we do. That's just advice. . . ."

State Expects Absentee Vote To Be Large

Harrisburg (AP)—Pennsylvania's 1952 presidential election is expected to bring a record postwar vote from absentee servicemen and women.

A "tremendously heavy" vote turnout by Keystone military personnel was forecast yesterday by Gene D. Smith, secretary of the Commonwealth.

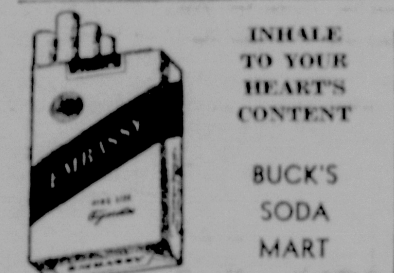

Pennsylvania's 1951 absentee voting law permits eligible service personnel on duty outside the State to vote by mail.

Although he emphasized that no accurate figures are available, Smith said the Nov. 4 general election absentee vote may run over the 200,000 mark. He said the presidential election will be largely responsible for the expected heavy military vote.

Pennsylvania's biggest absentee soldier vote was recorded in the 1944 presidential election when 657,378 ballots were received. At that time there were over one million Keystone-State servicemen and women outside the State. The present estimate ranges from 230,000 to 300,000.

The present absentee voting law, enacted last year after a lapse since 1946, extends voting privileges to military personnel and hospitalized or bedridden veterans. Ballots may be obtained by eligible personnel upon written request to the secretary of the Commonwealth or county election boards.

Marble played an important part in the election.

Eight Members Of One Family Perish In Fire

Somerset (AP)—Six children and their parents perished yesterday in a farmhouse fire at nearby Rockwood.

Only one person got out alive. He is 13-year-old Franklin Whipkey, one of the 11 children of John and Evelyn Whipkey. Franklin jumped out of a window.

In addition to the parents, the dead include Gertrude, 17, Dorothy, 15, Homer, 14, Freeman, 10, James, 12, and Aaron Joseph, 8. Four other children, Elsie, Betty, John and Harold, live in nearby communities. John was working on a nearby farm.

The blaze broke out about 7 a.m. in the kitchen of the three-story frame structure which is over a hundred years old. It quickly spread to the second floor of the house and enveloped it in a few minutes.

State police blamed the fire on an explosion presumably started by kerosene tossed in a coal stove.

Some of the victims apparently suffocated. Firemen found four charred bodies sprawled in one corner.

Young Franklin, stunned and fearful, blurted out this story:

"We were getting ready for school. Mom, me and Dorothy were in the kitchen getting breakfast ready. Jimmy, Freeman and A. J. were in the living room sitting at a window watching the robins.

"I had to go out for a minute. When I came back I opened the door and heard an explosion. I heard three cracks. Then I saw a lot of fire and smoke.

"My eyes were full of smoke. I grabbed Mom's arm and tried to pull her out but she broke loose and ran to find the kids.

"I heard her screaming 'I've got to find the little ones.' Somehow I got outside. Smoke and fire were coming out of all the doors and windows.

"A. J. and Jimmy were hollering 'help-help.' I wanted so much to help them but I couldn't.

His sister, Gertrude, the oldest of the children who perished in the blaze, had returned home only two weeks ago.

Betty Whipkey explained: "Gert got lonesome for mom

Beynon Claims Court Erred In Decision

Pittsburgh, (AP)—Daniel Beynon of Scranton argued before the State Supreme court yesterday that a court error is depriving him of his right to be a 10th district congressional candidate in the April 22 Republican primary.

The Dauphin county court had quashed Beynon's nominating petition because it ruled the petition contained only 186 names instead of the 200 required by law.

Counsel for Beynon argued Judge Homer L. Kreider of the Dauphin court had no authority to grant a rehearing in the case after the seven-day period for filing complaints against nominating petitions had expired.

Attorney Milton J. Kolansky, Scranton, asserted the original complaint, by Nelson Nichols, Scranton, another congressional candidate, was insufficient to result in Beynon's petition being nullified.

"Beynon's petition contained 236 names," said Kolansky. Of these 30 were duplications of names signed on the nominating petition of Joseph L. Carrigg (of Susquehanna), and four were names of persons who had signed Beynon's petition twice.

"If these allegations were correct and all 34 names cut off, Beynon would still have 202 names on his petition, or enough to nominate him (as a candidate in the primary).

"With regard to 51 other names which Nichols alleged were not in the handwriting of the sessions signed, it is not required that names on a nominating petition be in the person's handwriting. He may give permission to have his name put on the petition."

As a result of the amended petition, Judge Kreider cut off the names of 43 persons who signed both the Beynon and Carrigg petitions and the names of seven persons which appeared twice on Beynon's petition, for a total of 50. This reduced Beynon's petition to 186 names, or 14 below the required number.

If the Supreme court denies Beynon's appeal, only Nichols, Carrigg and Robert L. Taylor, Moscow RD 2, will remain in the 10th district GOP race.

State Expects Absentee Vote To Be Large

Harrisburg AP—Pennsylvania's 1952 presidential election is expected to bring a record postwar vote from absentee servicemen and women.

A "tremendously heavy" vote turnout by Keystone military personnel was forecast yesterday by Gene D. Smith, secretary of the Commonwealth.

Pennsylvania's 1951 absentee voting law permits eligible service personnel on duty outside the State to vote by mail.

Although he emphasized that no accurate figures are available, Smith said the Nov. 4 general election absentee vote may run over the 200,000 mark. He said the presidential election will be largely responsible for the expected heavy military vote.

Pennsylvania's biggest absentee soldier vote was recorded in the 1944 presidential election when 637,378 ballots were received. At that time there were over one million Keystone-State servicemen and women outside the State.

The present estimate ranges from 230,000 to 300,000.

The present absentee voting law, enacted last year after a lapse since 1946, extends voting privileges to military personnel and hospitalized or bedridden veterans. Ballots may be obtained by eligible personnel upon written request to the secretary of the Commonwealth or county election boards.

Marble played an important part in the election.

Eight Members Of One Family Perish In Fire

Somerset AP—Six children and their parents perished yesterday in a farmhouse fire at nearby Rockwood.

Only one person got out alive. He is 13-year-old Franklin Whipkey, one of the 11 children of John and Evelyn Whipkey. Franklin jumped out of a window.

In addition to the parents, the dead include Gertrude, 17, Dorothy, 15, Homer, 14, Freeman, 10, James, 12, and Aaron Joseph, 8. Four other children, Elsie, Betty, John and Harold, live in nearby communities. John was working on a nearby farm.

The blaze broke out about 7 a.m. in the kitchen of the three-story frame structure which is over a hundred years old. It quickly spread to the second floor of the house and enveloped it in a few minutes.

State police blamed the fire on an explosion presumably started by kerosene tossed in a coal stove.

Some of the victims apparently suffocated. Firemen found four charred bodies sprawled in one corner.

Young Franklin, stunned and tearful, blurted out this story:

"We were getting ready for school. Mom, me and Dorothy were in the kitchen getting breakfast ready. Jimmy, Freeman and A. J. were in the living room sitting at a window watching the robins.

"I had to go out for a minute. When I came back I opened the door and heard an explosion. I heard three cracks. Then I saw a lot of fire and smoke.

"My eyes were full of smoke. I grabbed Mom's arm and tried to pull her out but she broke loose and ran to find the kids.

"I heard her screaming 'I've got to find the little ones.' Somehow I got outside. Smoke and fire were coming out of all the doors and windows.

"A. J. and Jimmy were holler-

ing 'help-help.' I wanted so much to help them but I couldn't.

His sister, Gertrude, the oldest of the children who perished in the blaze, had returned home only two weeks ago.

Betty Whipkey explained: "Gert got lonesome for mom

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Wallingford daughter Sharon and David Wallingford accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brader daughter Patricia of Tannersville called on Miss Blanche Miller and mother at Mt. Bethel Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Miller and family have moved into the former Wilson Warner home but now owned by Ed Doll recently.

An interesting account book was discovered by Mrs. Paul Miller in housecleaning. It was the account of Conrad Miller who made coffins in those days. The prices ranged from one dollar to thirty five which was the limit. One item read "I coffin $20. Took him to Easton $6. Total $26". It has a total of 211 coffins.

Jacob Rustine and Jimmy Wallingford carpenters for Paul Edinger of Stroudsburg are remodeling the interior of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Paul.

Holy Communion will be celebrated in our church on Sunday morning April 6 at 10:30 a. m. by Dr. Horn of Allentown.

Buy From Low Bidders!

Decision of Monroe County Commissioners yesterday to discard the popularity vote on two voting machines which had been displayed in the court house was a wise one. The 144 votes cast fell far short of the 8,500 persons who will use the machines.

Apparently, the commissioners are going to apply their own good common sense with which we believe they are amply endowed.

That brings us right back to the point with which we, and all taxpayers, are concerned. Which machine will cost the least?

Since both machines are approved by the Secretary of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and are in satisfactory use in Pennsylvania, cost remains the decisive factor. The voting machine contract should go to the lowest bidder.

Schools First

By 1957, the U. S. commissioner of education reports, the nation will need 600,000 more classrooms and 130,000 more teachers to take care of the growing public school population.

This is bad news at a time when taxpayers already are resentful over the high cost of government. Schools and teachers cost money.

Nevertheless, it is money well spent. In very few communities have the people voted against more taxes when the money was exclusively for schools. And schools are, under our system, primarily the responsibility of the communities and the states, and they should be.

The federal government is helping pay for new schools in boom communities where sudden, overwhelming influxes of school children were due to activities of the federal government, such as the setting up of new Army posts and defense plants or their expansion. That is about all the federal government can afford, in view of its other burdens.

The people, and the states, are going to have to figure out how to provide these necessary new schools and the teachers for them. They should do it, even if it means giving up other improvements which seem badly needed. Nothing is more important than good educations for our children.

Act Today!

A sudden turn of events the wholly unexpected decision of Senate Foreign Relations committee to close its hearings today on foreign aid spending, leaves only today for fifteen non-government organizations and individuals to present their views.

Chamber of Commerce of the United States suggests individuals here send their views immediately to Sen. Tom Connally, chairman Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Senate Office Building, Washington, 25, D. C. with a request the statement be included in printed proceedings of Committee hearings.

The National Chamber opposes any more authorizations for foreign aid this year. It charges the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is attempting to "stifle public opinion" by rushing an additional and unnecessary $7.9 billion foreign aid bill through committee hearings.

These Days - - By George E. Sokolsky

The Second Stringers

The decisions of Judge Edward J. Dimock in the United States District Court in New York are, in many respects, mindful of a passage written by Frederick Engels, in 1895, to a new print of Karl Marx's "Class Struggles in France":

"The irony of world history turns everything upside-down. We, the 'Revolutionaries,' the 'Rebels,' are thriving far better on legal methods than on illegal methods and revolts. The parties of order, as they call themselves, are perishing under the legal conditions created by themselves."

Judge Dimock was sworn in on July 23, 1951. His judicial experience is limited to his present position. He has been the State reporter, editing the official law reports of the State of New York. He has served in the Office of Contract Settlements, Washington. He has been a lecturer of the law of municipal corporations at the Yale Law School. Now, he is sitting in the Criminal Part of the United States District Court, over which Judge Medina has presided in the trial of the first string Communist leaders. Judge Dimock is presiding over the trial of the second string Communist leaders.

So far, the Communists are having a field day of it.

In the matter of habeas corpus proceedings involving the bail of Isidore Begun, one of the most notorious and publicly known Communist leaders, the Government, in view of eight Communist fugitives in these cases, asked that in addition to bail, Begun should have a surety to guarantee his appearance. Judge Dimock said no surety was necessary, despite prior ruling to the contrary by Judge Sylvester Ryan, an experienced jurist in this court, plus decisions in the Court of Appeals, and by Mr. Justice Reed of the United States Supreme Court.

In the case of William Schneiderman, now head of the Communist Party of this country, he was indicted on the West Coast, but happened to be in New York. The usual procedure is for the California people to say what bail they would like set; to move the culprit to California; and to have decisions made there. California asked for $100,000 bail, which was subsequently reduced to $75,000. Judge Dimock further lowered the bail to $50,000 and stayed removal for Schneiderman to make bail.

In the case of Irving Weissman, a Communist wanted in western Pennsylvania, Judge Dimock reduced the bail from $100,000, an amount he regarded as ridiculous, to $35,000. These two reductions violated well-established precedent that a Federal District Court will not interfere with bail recommended by another district which has jurisdiction over the prisoner. The case of the second string Communist, technically referred to as United States V. Flynn et al. was set for trial March 3, 1952. At that time, the judges regularly assigned to the Criminal Part included Judge Henry W. Goddard, the second senior judge of this court, a jurist of great distinction who presided over the second Alger Hiss trial in which Hiss was convicted; Judge Irving R. Kaufman, who had presided over the case of the United States V. Julius Rosenberg et al. (the Atom Bomb spies), in which he imposed death sentences; and Judge John F. X. McGohey, who as the United States Attorney successfully prosecuted the first string Communists who were found guilty.

These judges were passed over in the assignment of the case of the second string Communist now before Judge Dimock. But the surprising fact stands that when the assignment was made to Judge Dimock, he was not formally scheduled to sit in the Criminal Part.

The question naturally arises in the mind of a newspaperman as to why the experienced judges were passed over and a new judge who had not presided over major criminal cases was chosen to handle this tough one.

Some judges gain distinction one way; some another. Judge Medina won a great place with his handling of the first string Communist cases by his methods; maybe Judge Dimock can achieve the same result by another method.

od. To the layman that is not important. What is important is that justice shall be done and that these enemies of America shall not be coddled and given special and undue advantages. The first string Communists were found guilty. Eight fugitives from justice developed in these cases, which must be watched and the record studied day by day.

After General Benedict Arnold had turned traitor in the Revolutionary War, and was fighting with Lord Dunmore in Virginia, a tight-lipped Colonial prisoner was led before him. General Arnold was anxious to learn from this prisoner what was the public attitude toward him, and promised not only immunity but an early release for an absolutely honest answer.

The prisoner thought for a moment, then declared, "Sir, we would bury with full military honors the noble leg that bears the honorable scars of Saratoga, but what we would do to the rest of your treasonable carcass I leave to your imagination."

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington— I hate to keep nagging Mr. Truman about this, but he had a chance to come clean in the new book, "Mr. President." Maybe I'm too hopeful, but I felt sure he would fill in the missing details regarding his oil stock operations in Kansas City during 1916 and 1917. He did list a number of his previous occupations, such as soda jerk. But I searched the book in vain for a reference to the $300,000 skimming the President, along with three partners, handed Missouri residents in those years. It isn't likely that a stock promotion job of this size could just slip a man's mind, especially when he's co-authoring a political biography.

William Hillman, the nominal author of the book, obviously holds Mr. Truman in total esteem, so even if the President is bashful about this financial credit it would appear only normal for Hillman to relish a recital of the details. There are a number of other omissions, however, which I'll go into later, so maybe the oil stock promotion that netted a profit for the President—but not for any of the investors—is just another case of oversight. Mr. Truman was secretary of the Morgan and Company Oil Investments Corporation of Kansas City, Missouri, and one of its most active salesmen. Dave Morgan, the president, is still active in Missouri oil developments, although it is difficult, in talking to him, to separate fact from fancy. He's downright loquacious about the 1916-17 oil stock killing, except when it comes to the details of what happened to the oil wells, oil land and refineries that were advertised as come-on bait for the suckers who invested their cash. As I told you last year, after tramping over half of Kansas, I still couldn't locate the refinery that was supposed to have been in production in Rollins, Kansas.

"Mr. President," however, is only one reason I was reminded of Mr. Truman's oil dealings at this particular time. Ever since my tour of the Kansas and Missouri oil jungles, which survived the impact of the Morgan-Truman operations, I've had a fairly steady flow of worthless Morgan company stock certificates coming into the office. Most of them are signed by the now President of the United States, or by other company officials who underwrote his signature stamp on the certificate.

The latest batch is the fanciest yet. It contains a purchase contract, in addition to an oil stock certificate for 10 shares and 10 five dollar receipts of payment. Four of the receipts are unmistakably signed by Mr. Truman. L. E. Bartholomew of Ne-mo-ha, Nebraska, who owns them, considers them rare collector items. I agree. They are dated between January and March of 1917. The President's signatures are clear and precise, with a little less flair than the current penmanship he uses for state documents.

Mr. Bartholomew would like to get his $50 out of the oil stock, although he prefers to retain possession of the receipts. His views are similar to the dozens of others in Missouri who bit and are now writing me about the chances of getting some of their cash returned, with interest. Chances are slim, especially now that it has been made clear that despite his co-authorship of "Mr. President," Mr. Truman is not sharing in the profits.

I want to get back to the oil stock purchase contract, however, since it is the first one I've seen. It is signed by a George T. Wilson on behalf of the Truman-Morgan corporation. Wilson lists himself as a salesman "Up to now I had thought that the President was the corporation's only salesman. He was certainly its most active one, however, as several acquaintances whom he stopped on the street corners in Kansas City in 1917 and urged to invest now recall.

The purchase contract is binding. It offered suckers a bargain by paying for the stock certificates in cash and saving 5 per cent. Under the time payment deal, five shares could be obtained with $5 cash down and $5 a month payments for the next four months. Heavy spenders were urged to pick up 200 shares with $200 cash down and four $200 a month payments. A number did.

There were 60,000 shares of this wallpaper floated around Kansas City. I've seen about $20,000 worth of the certificates, but I'm beginning to lose interest. It's like reading a serial story and being deprived of the final installment.

How about the final chapter, Mr. President?

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

By an odd coincidence we received two postcards today from 2 friends who are spending their vacations in Florida. The two cards came from towns that are not far away from each other.

I shall not mention the names of the towns, because to say anything derogatory about Florida is an extraditable crime. But I checked on both of them and the climate is about the same.

One of the cards reads: "It's miserable down here. Have been here seven days and it rained three days out of the seven. If it doesn't get any better we'll be coming home."

The other one said: "Having a wonderful time! Bright sunshine four days out of seven. Sun is wonderful. Our tan is super."

There you are.

In one town it rained three days out of seven.

Hollywood

Hollywood—Paragraphs about people and pictures—

"Mr. Congressman," in which Van Johnson plays the title role, recently did some location shooting in and around the Capitol building in Washington, D. C. And here's the oddity of the week: Both the father and mother of the picture's sound man were members of Congress.

"It was such a thrill to go back there," said Conrad Kahn, the dial-twirler, on a sound-stage reproduction of the House of Representatives. "So many people said, 'I knew your dad.' I received a note from Vice-President Barkley and called on him. Once we were next-door neighbors; his son and I were playmates."

Kahn's father, Julius, was a Republican congressman from San Francisco from 1898 until he died in 1924. His wife, Florence, succeeded him in office until 1938.

Conrad? He's affable, too, like successful office-holders. But his bent was toward electronics and movie-making. "I picked the only business that's crazier than politics," he grinned . . .

The talk in Van Johnson's nearby dressing room swung inevitably toward the coming Academy awards. Is his heart set on winning one some time? "No, they scare me a little," Van confided. "After you get an Oscar, you're always thinking, 'I've gotta top it.'"

Then what's an actor's greatest satisfaction? "Getting a picture finished." Good reviews? "I never read reviews. They broke my heart years ago."

Jesse White, the tough-talking character actor, says he has just one superstition. It's to smoke the most expensive cigar he can find (usually a $1 one)

Food Handlers, Students To Have Chests X-Rayed Next Week

Mobile Unit To Be Here April 1 To 4

Food handlers, senior class members of eight Monroe County high schools, all high school athletes regardless of grade, all teachers, non-instructional employees and school food handlers will be given chest X-rays by Monroe County Tuberculosis Society April 1 through April 4.

The handlers of food and drink in the boroughs of East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg will be X-rayed on April 1.

A new health ordinance adopted by East Stroudsburg Council last month makes it mandatory for anyone connected in any way with the handling of food or drink within the borough to have, in addition to a careful and complete physical examination, a chest X-ray test. Stiff penalties are provided for violation of law.

A similar ordinance will be presented to Stroudsburg Council for adoption on April 3. It will, if adopted, be effective immediately. The mobile X-ray unit brought here at the expense of Monroe County Tuberculosis Society will be available until Friday so that any Stroudsburg food handlers who might come under such an ordinance will have an opportunity to be X-rayed.

Stroudsburg food handlers may report to the mobile X-ray unit at Stroudsburg Municipal building from 8 to 11 a.m. April 1.

East Stroudsburg food handlers will report to the fire house from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. the same day.

Schedule for high school X-rays was announced yesterday by Mrs. Estelle Fleming, executive secretary of TB Society. It follows:

Wednesday, April 2, East Stroudsburg 9 to 11 a.m.; Chestnut Hill, 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.; Polk 2 to 3 p.m.

Thursday, April 3, Pocono, 9 to 10 a.m.; Barrett, 10:30 to 11:30 a.m.; Coolbaugh, 1 to 1:30 p.m.; Tobyhanna Township, 2 to 3:30 p.m.

Friday, April 4, Stroudsburg High 9 to 11 a.m.

Another item dealt with purported errors in eight vouchers, ranging from 10 cents to $20.

In other items, Wernett raised questions about:

Mileage expenses submitted by former chief county assessor Paul Mansfield; the matter of certain fees collected by former prothonotary Claude E. Metzgar; the indication that 38 per cent of the long distance telephone calls from the chief assessor's office were outside the county area, and of them 36 per cent were made to Allentown; the reasonableness of election expenses allowed by county commissioners to themselves.

Wernett also reported he had been unable to find invoices or bills to substantiate 15 payments of $25 each from Jan. 22 to April 23 by county commissioners to a Portland nursing home.

The auditor cited code sections stating that "no law shall increase or diminish the salary of a public officer after his election or appointment," and related this to former district attorney Detlef A. Hansen.

Wernett's report claimed Hansen was paid $330 on Voucher 8603, paid March 19, 1951.

The letter transmitting the bill to commissioners, Wernett said, claimed the amount due to "increase in the county's population."

Said Wernett, in closing his report: "Systems for conducting the county's operations in use and effect should be thoroughly reviewed to the end that existing evidences of:

Lot Selling For $500 Assessed At $1,800, Or 360 Per Cent Of Value

(This is the twenty-sixth in a series of articles based on actual real estate sales in borough and township and the amounts at which these properties were assessed. Figures were taken from official county records.)

By Leonard Randolph
During November and December, 1951, eighteen properties in Stroudsburg changed hands. This is the number of sales on which assessment figures are available currently.

The first of these properties, a $9,000 house on Main St., was assessed at $2,000 or 22 per cent of its market value. As has been the case several times throughout the year, the assessed value of properties hovered at or around 20 per cent of the sale price. In November and December eight of the properties sold were assessed at "about one fifth of value".

With November's second sale, however, the assessment percentage soared to 360 in relation to the sale price of the property—a $500 lot sale on Second St. which was assessed at $1,800. There is no indication that the sale was anything other than a sale of lots—no house, buildings or equipment which might raise the value of the property are apparent on the record.

It cannot be logically said, either, that the sale is "extreme" in any one of the other ways previously mentioned in this series of articles. It did not, apparently, occur between members of the same family. There was no "trade" deal, involving the transfer of properties between two individuals to the mutual "benefit" of both.

With none of these explanations to fall back on, it would seem that the price represented as "sale price" must have been a fair reflection of the "value" of the property. The $1,800 assessment, therefore, would seem exorbitant.

With a third sale made during November the assessed valuation returned to the near 20 per cent bracket. An assessed value equal to 22 per cent of the market value of a property was set on a $9,000 house. The house was assessed at $2,000.

A house on N. Second St. which sold for $5,000 was assessed at $1,000—exactly 20 per cent of its value. A $2,500 house on Second St. was assessed at $700 or 28 per cent.

Two $1,000 assessments were set during November. One of the properties (a $7,000 house on Third St.) was assessed at 14 per cent of its value on the basis of this assessment; a second house, on First St. sold for $6,000 and was assessed at ($1,000) 17 per cent of its value.

A short time later a $500 lot on Fifth St. was assessed at $250 or 50 per cent of its sale price. There is no indication that any other property (buildings etc.) was a part of this transaction.

A $2,500 house on N. Fifth St. was assessed at $1,000 or 40 per cent of value during the same short time period. Here we have two assessments which stand out in sharp contrast to the majority of the percentages set for other properties during the two months.

With the sale of a $6,000 house on First St. the percentage again dipped sharply downward. The house was assessed at only $700—12 per cent of its market value. A $13,500 house on Scott St. meanwhile, was assessed at $1,400 or 10 per cent of its value.

A $7,000 house on N. Fifth St. was assessed at $1,500 or 21 per cent; a $15,500 house on Thomas St. had an assessed value of $4,000 or 26 per cent of its market value.

A $9,500 Queen St. house was assessed at $1,500 or 16 per cent of its market value while a house on N. Tenth St. which sold for $5,500 was assessed at $1,200 or 22 per cent of its value.

The two remaining sales during November and December were assessed at 22 and 14 per cent of the market value individually.

The first of these was a Colbert St. house which had a sale price of $6,500. It was assessed at $1,400 or 22 per cent. The second: a $13,500 house which was assessed at $1,900 or 14 per cent of its market value.

During November and December a house and lot (location unknown) sold for $12,500. The lot had previously been assessed at $200. The house was not, as yet, assessed, apparently. There is a notation on the assessor's account of the sale that the house was "new".

Assessment percentages during the last two months of 1951 ranged from a "low" of 10 per cent to a "high" of 360.

These were divided as follows: one at 10 per cent; one at 12; two at 14; one at 16 per cent; one at 17; one at 20; one at 21; four at 22 per cent; one at 24; one at 26; one at 40; one at 50; and one at 360 per cent of market value.

In the concluding installment of this current series on the borough of Stroudsburg, a comparative analysis of sales on the basis of the entire year 1951 will be attempted.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Spring fever caught up to a lot of people yesterday, and you found yourself yawning until your jaws ached and tears came to your eyes.

So you gave yourself a talking to, sat up straight, and paid attention to what you were doing, and the first thing you know you'd catch somebody else in the middle of a big yawn and you were off again.

It was a shame to waste such a pleasant day, too, in such napping. Oh, I woke up when the cat knocked the cactus on the floor with an awful thud, scattering pieces of flower pot and dry-as-dust dirt all over the floor. That cactus. Homeliest thing I ever did see, but it's about 12 years old and anything that's lived through 12 years of neglect deserves a chance at survival.

So I roused enough to go out and gathered some fresh dirt and another flower pot. And resolved while I was out in the air and sunshine that I'd do something about the staggering rose trellis and try to find a prop for the wisteria that's been trailing over the lawn since we had the house painted.

Well, I did get as far as to change to gardening shoes—but there my energy ran out and the trellis still staggers, the wisteria still trails.

And even if the rest of you would stop yawning, I'm not sure I could.

Historical Newspapers In Museum

Dr. Nathan Meyer, president of the Monroe County Historical Society, yesterday announced a recent gift to the society of 45 bound volumes of early Monroe County history as recorded in local newspapers dating from 1844 to 1900.

The volumes were the gift of the Daily Record through the courtesy of Merle C. Ostrom and were placed in files in the historical society museum by Mrs. Horace Walters, curator. Mrs. Earl F. Groner, assistant curator has catalogued them, and they are now available for reference work for historians.

The names of the newspapers, changing through the years, begin with the Jefferson Republican, the Jeffersonian, the Stroudsburg Times, the Daily Times, the Monroe Record, the Daily Record, the Times-Democrat, the Monroe Democrat, and longest name of all, the Monroe Record and Times Democrat.

The books were taken to the museum in a truck furnished by E. H. Wyckoff and the work of carrying the heavy volumes was done by a group of boys from Stroudsburg High school supervised by Carlton L. Berger, history teacher. The boys included Lloyd Williams, Bruce Shook, Harry Dieter, Harry Bond, Dave Schoonover and Francis Diebert.

Class Dinner Tonight

The Young People's Bible Class of Grace Lutheran Church School will hold their regular monthly meeting tonight at 6:30 following a covered dish supper in the social rooms of the parish house. Mrs. Mabel Weiss, class president and Clyde Schaller, teacher, urge all members and their families to be present.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

From where I sit it looks as though whoever wrote, "Backward, turn backward, on Time, in Time, in Time" has had his wish more than fulfilled . . . and at Wyckoff's, of course! Hanging from the bookcase, directly across the room is the top of a two piece dress fashioned of black taffeta with inserts of lace. Handsome relic of a day long past, it's just the thing to be saluted by the high, shiny plush hat on the file case opposite. And right next to me on a table is a half slip made of ten yards of crinoline, and a set of hoops loaned by Mrs. Emma Dean, of Mountain home, in response to the plea in Monday's Shopper column.

The hoops . . . first I've ever seen . . . seem to be not much larger than a bird cage when fastened about the hips, and it's going to be a bit of a problem to reconcile a long stride to their unrelenting circumference. I still am not sure how ladies sat down 75 years ago. But I'm not going to try . . . that's for sure. This won't be the first time I've eaten supper from a mantelpiece.

As if all this were not enough in the small office, there are tambourines, stacks of new merchandise which will be "special priced" during the store's anniversary sale in April, and a record player from Sears which will have an important role in the program of our Employees' Anniversary party which is now just a few hours away.

Everyone will look lovely . . . no doubt of that. But we're not all going to be quite as authentic as we seem. There's hardly a girl among us who won't be pinned here and there, or embellished with an extra jabot strategically placed to hide the inches that refuse to conform to hygone standards. That's where the present day Wyckoff store enters the picture . . . with ribbons, buttons, jewels, lace by the yard, mitts, and snood-like nets . . . a pleasant blending of present and past that makes for fun and pleasant reminiscence. As for that ten yard crinoline slip . . . it was run up in a few minutes by Viola Feltham, working from nothing except a few measurements.

Viola is to be instructress for the series of free sewing lessons which open today in our store at 2:30. And I vouch for this, she certainly knows — and practices — what she teaches.

U.S. Occupation Helping German Economy, Says Teacher Now Here

By Leonard Randolph

Dieta Mueller is a young woman who knows what she wants to do. That, in itself, is not so unusual. But Dieta has crossed the Atlantic ocean to learn how to do her job as well as she can.

The profession Dieta has chosen is teaching. This she proposes to do in Germany, her home country.

She is in America today as one of a group of teachers who are learning about American education, picking up ideas on modern methods of teaching in this country, which she will take back with her to Germany later this year.

She arrived in this country more than six months ago. Most of the time she has spent at a teachers college in Nashville, Tenn. and on trips between New York City and Washington, D. C.

Dieta arrived at the E. Stroudsburg school this week to begin a four-week practical indoctrination course which, she feels, will help her later on.

In an interview yesterday afternoon at the east borough school, Dieta Mueller recounted some of the events of her life and gave her personal opinions on the present condition of her nation.

There was only a trace of accent in her voice as she talked. Her command of the English language allows her to carry on conversations without searching for the "proper" word.

As she talked the expressive hands emphasized the strong points in her statements.

"I was born in the same city I'm living in now. Except that now it has a different name," she said. "Before the war it was called Weisermunde-Gestemunde — now it's Bremerhaven. It's a port city on the North Sea."

The wide grey eyes glanced down for a moment. "Bremerhaven was hit pretty hard . . . during the war. Almost 45 per cent of our housing was destroyed. We lived there all the way through the war, but toward the end most of us were evacuated."

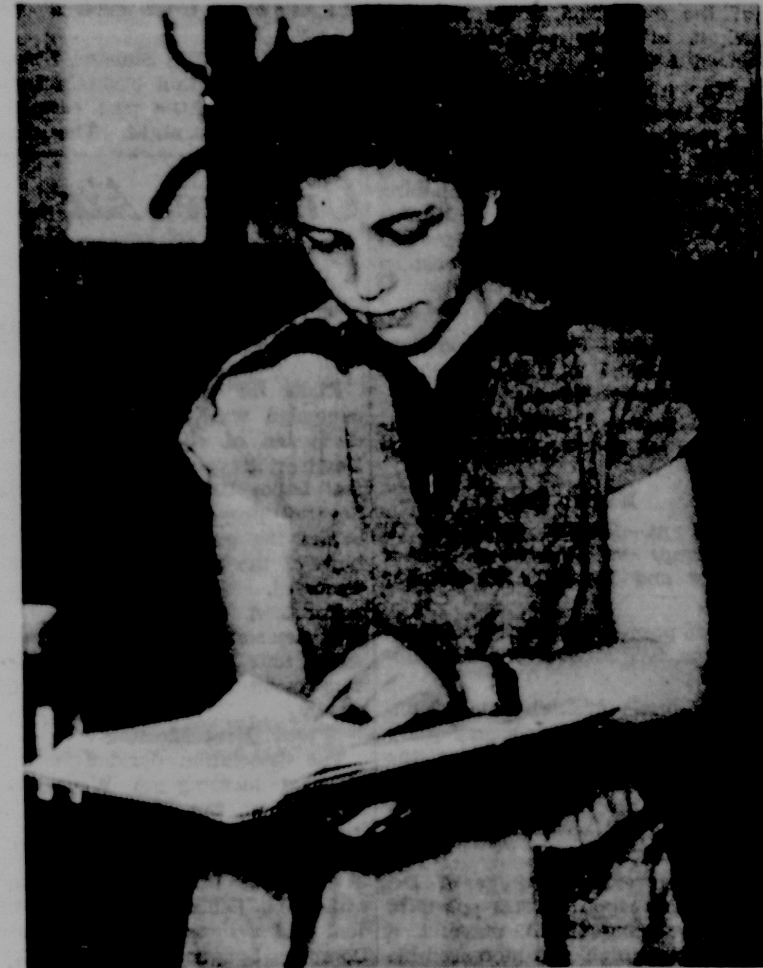

Dieta was more concerned with the effect the war may have had on the people in Bremerhaven — and the children — than the effects it may have had politically or economically. "After the war was over," she continued slowly, "we stopped all schooling for one year. Then started it again."

"During that time most of the people were living from stealing and lying. There was almost nothing else."

In Dieta's opinion, the American occupation has been a good one. It has, among other things, helped to "stabilize the economy for the man on the street". Now, she points out, most of the people have jobs and have enough to feed their children. This, she feels, is the most important thing. The national economy of Germany, however, is another thing. The size of the debts and the lack of faith in the present German government combine to make the current national economy an extremely unstable affair, she says.

To Dieta Mueller the present administration closely parallels other attempts in her country to set up a "government of the people".

"After the first World War, for example," she said, "we tried to set up a form of government by the people. But it failed. The people were dissatisfied. Then along came Hitler and the rise of a number of political parties—all of them debating and disagreeing. At first it caught the people up and convinced them—then, later, it was too late . . .

EAST STROUDSBURG ELEMENTARY SCHOOL has a new "student" this week. She is 22-year-old Dieta Mueller of Bremerhaven, Germany. Dieta is one of a group of teachers currently studying American education. She is shown top, above in the second grade classroom. East Stroudsburg was one of over one hundred schools chosen for observation posts throughout the country. (Daily Record Photo)

"Adenauer (Konrad Adenauer, political chieftain in present-day West Germany) is an extremely unpopular man today . . . but he is still in power." With a slight shrug of her shoulders Dieta says: "Up to this point we are fighting too much among ourselves. It will take us a long time before we're able to get along by ourselves."

For this reason Miss Mueller

our country will be the battlefield if a war should come." With a sudden gesture of her hand, Dieta disposes of this as an unavoidable, although unpleasant, fact. "Our geographical location forces them to do these things."

Of one thing, however, Dieta Mueller seems certain—"All Germany is against Communism. We have lived next to it . . . we have parts of our families in the eastern zone—we know too well what is going on."

Throughout all her conversations, one thing shines through Dieta Mueller's statements. That uncommon thing is common sense. She takes a small amount of pride in it. But, like most things, she says, "common sense is no good unless you have been instructed in how to use it."

When Dieta first heard of the opportunity to come to America and visit schools and colleges she knew was up against a "big decision." In the end she decided definitely "wanted to go" and took the examinations.

Later, confronted by a panel of American officers and German school officials, the desire to learn more about American education became even stronger. Then, when she and her college classmates had gone back to school, they learned that undergraduates were not eligible for the teacher training program.

At the last minute, however, two exceptions were made—for Dieta and "a girl friend" who attended the same school. Their selection out of a field of 189 undergraduate applicants, was made on the basis of scholastic standing and their expressed opinion of "what we hoped to learn in this country."

Dieta's first impressions of this country are interesting primarily for their brevity. Of New York she says: "All people and buildings—and everything in a hurry." Of Washington: "A pretty place, all white and green—but with so many big buildings. And all those Greek columns and arches." Of Nashville, Tenn. (where she spent six months as the guest of a college): "A bigger city than the Stroudsburgs—but dirty. And so far removed from the countryside."

She has not been in the Stroudsburgs long enough to have a concrete opinion about the environment. What she has seen, however, she finds beautiful. As usual with Dieta, the people are most important. Here she has found the people all very polite and friendly—especially the teachers at East Stroudsburg school.

And the children? "Well," Dieta says with a broad, infectious laugh. "Children are the same all over the world."

The children in Margaret Ellenberger's second grade room were certainly no different. They watched and listened with enchanted wide eyes as Miss Mueller told them the story of "the pancake that ran away."

When the story was finished, Dieta turned to leave the classroom. The bell announcing the end of the period had just rung. From the back of the room, a thin voice said: "Please don't go."

Dieta Mueller laughed, assuring the complaining voice that she would be back tomorrow and walked out into the hallway. Just outside the door, two small boys grinned and said: "Hello" and received an equally warm "Hello" in return.

Walking down the hallway, Dieta Mueller smiled a little sadly and turned her head toward the reporter walking beside her.

"You know—the first thing I heard about this school before I had a chance to go to classes was a sort of excuse that 'the building would be old.' The full lips smiled.

Life of Riley

Dr. Frank P. Maguire, commissioner of PIAA basketball and football officials, and still the best after-dinner speaker that this writer ever heard, has served as official scorer for the last two PIAA playoff games in the eastern section of the state and will hold down the same position tomorrow night, when Coatesville and Farrell clash in Philadelphia's class "A" high school basketball crown. The former East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg High school cage mentor and coach of the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College quintet at one time, will also be on hand for the game between Avalon and Kutztown in Allentown tonight.

Kutztown and Avalon will be battling for the class "B" championship. When Miles Bossard went into action for Pocono Gardens Lodge in the Senior YMCA Tournament last night, it marked the first time since 1945 that Bossard had taken part in a regulation basketball game. Bossard's last club was reportedly the Y Tigers. Dave "Muscles" Everett, Stroudsburg High basketball star during the past campaign, will play in the Freeland Tournament tonight with Pocono Gardens Lodge, a much different club than that which campaigned on the YMCA court last night, under the same name.

Although not announced officially, both the Blue Mountain League and Pocono Mountains League were represented at the meeting held by the Blue Mountain Umpires Association at the Central Labor Union club last night in East Stroudsburg. Both circuits will hold meetings on Monday to decide on what umpire association they wish to have work their games during the coming campaign. The Pocono Mountains League will meet at the Lake House, in Saylorsburg, while the Blue Mountain League is scheduled to hold its gathering at the West Hanger Rod and Gun club. If the Pocono Mountains League continues to operate as a ten-team unit, it will have an easier time obtaining umpires, this was also learned from an unofficial source following last night's meeting at the CLU.

The Stroudsburg Hi-Y club will be among those witnessing the final round of the Olympic trials at Madison Square Garden next Tuesday. The club is scheduled to make the trip to New York by bus. Ken Meyer, head basketball and assistant football coach at Emmaus High, played with Pocono Gardens Lodge in the Senior YMCA tournament last night, but will not return to the club for further action.

Enal Gall, vice president of the Scranton entry in the class "A" Eastern League, will also serve as first base coach for the team recently purchased by Lou Baselle, former stockholder in the Stroudsburg Poconos. Gall, a former pro catcher, has visited on several occasions in the Stroudsburg area.

Danny Carnevale, pilot of the Carbondale Pioneer Blues, of the North Atlantic League, in 1948, will be a popular visitor to Dunmore Stadium, where the Scranton Miners play their home baseball games, this season, as he leads the Schenectady club into the same park where he formerly starred. Carnevale first became prominent while playing shortstop for Scranton a number of years ago. Danny should help lure the paying public through the Dunmore gates, much to the delight of Baselle and other Scranton officials.

Carbondale's radio station, WDL, is one of the stations to receive a "feeler" to broadcast all Scranton games during the coming campaign. If WDL should land the contract, Paul Elbrecht, sports editor of the Carbondale Daily News, will do the play-by-play. One more club informed this column last night that it would vote "no" on the proposal to field 12 teams in the Pocono Mountains League for the coming campaign. This means that six of the ten clubs already in the circuit are opposed to any enlargement.

Two former North Atlantic League hurlers did alright by themselves yesterday, in the major and minor league baseball action. Alex McNellane, one-time hurler with Nazareth, gave the Detroit "B" club only one run, while hurling five innings for Buffalo, of the International League. George Heller, former Carbondale chucker, worked three innings for the Minneapolis Millers against the A's and gave up only two hits and one run during his tour of duty.

The Shopping Center Five, from Pocono Pines, reportedly will be without the services of four of its top-flight performers in the Junior Gold Medal Tournament next week. Jim "Cocky" Wilson is reportedly undergoing surgery and "Buddy" Judge is out of action with a bad knee. Two other performers reportedly will also be among the missing. Due to the fact that Tom Schaller turned 13 before last November 15, the high scoring Biddy Basketball ace will be unable to play with the Stroudsburg club in Sunday's tournament at Scranton.

Vets, Awning Men Win In Senior YMCA Tournament

Advance Into Second Round Court Action

Veterans of Foreign Wars and Newell's Awning Men marched through first round games in the Senior YMCA Tournament last night, before a large crowd at the Monroe County YMCA. The Vets rolled over Pocono Gardens Lodge, 94-65, while the Awning Men had an equally easy time against the Units, 88-56.

Pocono Gardens remained in the thick of the fight with the Vets during the first period, trailing 22-18 entering the second round. However, it was the last time that the charges of Coach Jim Thurston were to be within hailing distance of the Vets, who led 47-27 at the halfway mark.

The outcome of the game was assured as the Vets held a 27-14 edge in the third period, although Pocono Gardens came up with a 24-20 advantage in the final stanza. Pocono Gardens made 15 of 26 foul shots, while the Vets rang the bell on 18 of 23 tosses from the same distance.

Henry "Hank" Stetler and Ray Steele led the VFW attack, with 26 and 17 tallies, while Al "Goals" Goedecke and Dave "Muscles" Everett paced the PGL offense, with 22 and 19 tallies respectively.

Second game hostilities found the Awning Men leading at the end of the first stanza, 29-14, and increasing the advantage to 44-22 at the halfway mark.

The same pattern of play held true in the second half, as the Awning Men continued to show their power, with a 24-17 edge over the Units in the third round and a clinching 20-17 advantage in the final period.

Newell's contingent made good on 12 of 23 shots from the foul line, while the Units came through with ten of 15 buckets from the charity stripe.

Gene Casale and Jack Newell each ran up 28 points for the Awning Men, while Jim Frailley and Lloyd "Sonny" Woodling each had 18 counters in a losing cause.

There is no tournament play at the Monroe County YMCA today. Action will resume on Monday.

West End A. C. To Hold Meeting

Effort—West End A. C., a member of the Pocono Mountains Baseball league, will hold a business meeting here at the Pohopoko hotel today, it was announced last night by Bob Rundle, team manager. The meeting is scheduled to take place at 8 p. m.

A final tabulation on receipts from a recent fund raising dance will be held.

Discussion of plans for the coming campaign will also be held, and all interested parties are urged to be on hand.

Browns Blast Indians

Tueson, Ariz., (AP)—With veteran Marty Marion socking a three-run homer, Bill Vecek's rejuvenated St. Louis Browns clipped three Cleveland pitchers for 16 hits yesterday and walked the "pennant-contending" Indians, 11-2.

Officials Frame Constitution

Bangor—Officers of the Bangor Little League drew up a constitution and a code of rules to be followed by the circuit during the coming campaign at a meeting here at the Fourth Ward Citizens Club last night. It was also announced that all interested boys, eight to 12 years of age, may obtain application blanks from any of the managers or coaches in the four wards featuring teams.

Another Gathering—The managers and coaches will also meet at the Fourth Ward Citizens Club on Monday, to discuss the purchase of uniforms and equipment.

Those attending last night's meeting were Marshall Pysher, president; John Linaberry, vice president; Jesse Mackintosh, secretary, and Louis Trigiani, treasurer.

Farrell Receives Third Shot At State PIAA Basketball Title Against Coatesville Five

Harrisburg (AP)—Coatesville, a team that was almost counted out of its own league race two months ago, goes after the PIAA class "A" basketball title tomorrow against the pre-season favorite.

Farrell's defending western champions had been tabbed all season as the best choice to win Pennsylvania's top high school cage crown. They lived up to expectations by compiling a 28-1 record.

However, Coatesville lost the first-half Ches-Mont League title to Pottstown and then lost a 54-

41 decision to Bethlehem the same week. But 29-year-old Coach Walt Funk fired up his Raiders to win 14 in a row and reach the state championship game.

Anxious—"My boys are anxious and willing and the same stuff that has carried them this far—teamwork and hustle—will carry them to the state championship, we hope," Funk said. "I know Farrell's tough; we had a scout at the Farrell-Westinghouse game and a team has to be good to win a game like that," he added.

Farrell won the western title Wednesday night, 55-54, over Pittsburg Westinghouse in a game that was decided on a single foul shot. Coatesville won a thriller from Catawqua, 61-53.

Meanwhile, coach Ed McCluskey said he hopes the law of averages catches up with his Farrell high cagers. Twice before the Farrell quintet got to the final round of the PIAA class "A" tournament only to lose out. Meanwhile in class "B" circles, Kutztown will meet Avalon to-night at Allentown's Rockne Hall for the state class "B" championship.

Dr. Frank P. Maguire

Maguire Named To Executive Committee Of Ruling Body

Dr. Frank P. Maguire, 229 E. Brown St., East Stroudsburg, yesterday was named to the executive committee of the National Basketball Committee of the United States and Canada, it was announced last night by the Associated Press.

Maguire, former vice chairman of the organization, was unable to attend the Seattle meeting this year, due to the pressure of PIAA State playoffs now in session. The former Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High School and East Stroudsburg State Teachers College basketball coach is chairman of PIAA football and basketball officials.

Also named to the executive committee were Mark Good, Williamsport, and Louis Wilkie, Denver. Maguire represents the National Federation of State High Schools; Good the YMCA, and Wilkie the AAU.

The choice of whether to take the ball out of bounds or shoot for a free point after a foul was taken away from the players yesterday by the committee.

The committee disclosed that the new rule, tried out Wednesday night by Illinois and Santa Clara in the consolation finals of the NCAA tournament, actually had been adopted before the game.

Announcement was withheld until yesterday, however, as the committee wished to see the game and determine if any revisions were advisable.

Extra Shot

While requiring him to shoot all fouls, the rule gives a player an extra shot if the first one is missed. This holds during the first 37 minutes of play in college, YMCA and Amateur Athletic Union games. High School teams will play 29 minutes of their games under this bonus plan.

During the last three minutes of all games every foul called will provide for two free shots, and there will be no waiver. During High School overtime, the automatic two-shot regulation will remain in force. In other games the bonus shot will apply for the first two minutes of overtime and the automatic two-shot system for the remaining three minutes.

At any time during the game a player fouled in the act of shooting will get two shots, as in the past—or one if he has made the field goal. The committee re-elected Bruce Drake of Oklahoma University as chairman. Lyle Quinn, representing Iowa High Schools, was named vice chairman; Howard Hobson of Yale, treasurer; Oswald Tower of Andover, Mass., editor, and H. V. Porter of Chicago, secretary.

Olympic Cage Trials On Two Fronts

By Bill Grimsley

New York (AP)—The lineup was set yesterday for the Olympic basketball trials, and the number one question was: Who's going to keep record-shattering Clyde Lovellette and his Kansas teammates out of Helsinki?

From their impressive sweep to the NCAA championship at Seattle, the Kansans now move to Kansas City where they make their opening Olympic bid tomorrow night against the small college champions, Southwest Missouri State of Springfield.

The six-foot-nine Lovellette, whose three-year point output is big for all-time among major colleges, is favored to propel his companions through the college half of the draw and throw a lot of fright into the tougher, experienced AAU foe.

The team which represents the U. S. in the Olympics will be chosen from the squads of the two finalists.

Here's the lineup of opening games tomorrow night in Kansas City and New York's Madison Square Garden (all times eastern standard):

New York—7:45 p. m.—Peoria Caterpillars (AAU winner) vs. U. S. Air Force (AAU number three).

9:30 p. m.—LaSalle (NIT winner) vs. St. John's (NCAA runner-up).

Kansas City—9 p. m.—Phillips Oilers (AAU runner-up) vs. Hollywood Fibber McGee and Molly (AAU number four).

10:45 p. m.—Kansas (NCAA winner) vs. SW Missouri (NAIB winner).

Semi-finals are scheduled Monday, March 31, at Madison Square Garden with the winners of the two college games meeting each other and the AAU survivors renewing an old rivalry. Finals are Tuesday night.

The towering protege of Dr. Phog Allen ripped off 141 points in the four-game NCAA playoffs, a tournament high, and increased his career total to 1,888.

This beat by slim margin of one field goal the high water mark of 1,886 set this season by Duke's Dick Groat. The previous three-year record was 1,786 held by Jim Lacy of Loyola (Baltimore). He did it in 1947-49.

Lovellette's 28.4 points per game average gives him the national individual scoring championship among major colleges. He also set an NCAA free throw record by sinking 35.

Phillies Nip Tigers

Clearwater, Fla. (AP)—First baseman Eddie Waitkus slammed a 343-foot homer over the center field wall in the fourth inning yesterday to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-2 decision over the Detroit Tigers.

Minneapolis Defeats A's

West Palm Beach, Fla. (AP)—A pair of Minneapolis hurlers limited the Philadelphia Athletics to four hits yesterday as the Millers won an exhibition game 4-1.

Good Pitching

The Minneapolis starter, right-hander Norman Fox gave up only two hits as he held the A's scoreless for the first six innings. Southpaw George Heller—although a bit on the wild side—performed almost as well in allowing only two hits and the A's lone run in the final three stanzas.

Ring Commission Turns Down Pep's Plea For Reinstatement

New York (AP)—Little Willie Pep's hopes for a comeback campaign were blighted yesterday when the New York State Athletic Commission rejected the former featherweight champion's request for reinstatement.

Commission Chairman Bob Christenberry and C. B. Powell, a member of the three-man board, met yesterday to review Pep's case and decided "not to grant reinstatement at this time."

The plea for restoration of Willie's revoked license had been made by telephone from Tampa, Fla., by Lou Viscusi, manager of the battle-scarred Hartford veteran.

Viscusi wanted the 29-year old boxer's license restored so that Pep could fight Jimmy McAllister of Baltimore in Holyoke, Mass., Monday night.

Pep hasn't fought since he had his license revoked here for his foul-packed match with featherweight king Sandy Saddler at the Polo Grounds last September 26. The penalty was dished out to him on October 5. Saddler was indefinitely suspended at the same time for his part in the fiasco but he was reinstated on December 5.

When Pep's punishment was announced, Christenberry advised Willie that "you can always come back to the commission. The door is not closed."

It wasn't opened yesterday.

Stroudsburg High Student Honored At Portland Banquet

Portland—Bill Shuster, Stroudsburg High sophomore, was honored as the outstanding basketball player in the Portland Business Men's League during the past campaign, during a banquet here at Otto's Grand View last night. The league played all its game on the Portland school court and featured players from 17 to 21 years of age.

Brody's Barber Shop was also honored as the league champion, followed to the wire by Cramer's Lumber Co., Jewell's Electric and Bahlman's Atlantic in that order.

Eight Players

Eight players, two from each team, were given awards for outstanding play and sportsmanship during the past campaign. In addition to Shuster, the other member of Brody's club honored was Bill Pensyl Jr., Joe Antonacci and Frank Yankenechek were given awards from Cramer's crew, while Lloyd Newbaker and Dick Weidman, of Jewell's club, and Neil Brody and Sam Pennise, Bahlman's, were also honored.

Bill Pensyl, official for all the games, was given a gift by the league.

Sid Effross, superintendent of Blairtown, N. J., schools and former basketball coach at Blairtown High, traced the history of the game, both nationally and locally, as guest speaker. According to Effross the game was first played in the Portland-Mt. Bethel area in 1912.

Wallace Stine served as toastmaster, following a country style ham dinner.

Basketball movies were shown following the speaking.

Pirates Win Over Giants

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the New York Giants, 2-1, yesterday to snap the National League champions' eight game winning streak.

Veteran southpaw Howie Pollet hurled the first seven innings for the Pirates and was the winning pitcher.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
